

I support RM-10352. Narrowband modes are much more effective and even more important on this medium frequency band. A protected narrowband segment is necessary on every band. With a 200kHz span, segmenting the band into 43kHz narrow and 157kHz wide modes is the right thing to do. I operate both narrow and wide modes and fully support separating the two toward a means of enhancing both.